

ERS. BENJAMIN HARRISON.

The social circles of this city will miss the kindly presence of Mrs. Benj. Harrison by her removal to Washington and becoming the mistress of the White House, and it is hoped that the coming four years will record many a return visit to her friends here in the Hoosier Society and Invitation. The Flower Mission fair has so absorbed the society element during the past week that there have been very few entertainments. On Monday evening the Second Presbyterians celebrated their semi-centennial with a social, and many Presbyterians, as well as members of other denominations, were present. It was one of the largest gatherings of the season. The same evening, Mrs. David Macy gave a tes to about sixty young people, in honor of Miss Vaughn and Miss Ewan, of Nasville, Tenn., and Mrs. R. S. McKee entertained about the same number of guests at a suchre and observation party, in of Mrs. Brown, of Virginia. Tuesday evening was the opening of the fair. Wednesday a very pretty wedding took place at Christ Church, the bride being Miss Mary E. Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Taylor, and the groom Mr. Alexander T. Drysdale, of Louisville. The ceremony was followed by a large reception at the family residence, on Central avenue. Thursday evening the Episcopalians were invited to Bishop Knickerbacker's home, on the Circle, to welcome Rev. George E. Swan, rector of Grace Cathedral and his bride. There were a great many present to extend congratulations and good wishes.

This week chronicles the return of the day our national thanksgiving, a holiday pleasures than any other. The prospect is for a quiet day, but it will probably be preceded and followed by a number of large and elegant entertainments, to which invitations have been issued. It will not be long now until Christmas comes and the young people who are away at school will be expected home, and the usual boliday gayeties will begin, though there has been no dearth of social entertainments since the first fail party was given. A few weddings will occur soon, but the most will take place late in December and some in January. Several popular society belies have surrendered to cupid, and the weddings will probably be large and fashionable.

There has been so much trouble in the delivery of invitations through the post that ladies are in dispair about what method to use to meure their transmission. One has adopted the district messenger service and found it good. The newest idea, however, is for the ladies to secure an office down town, where invitations may be left, and anyone who thinks she ought to be invited to a reception, wedding, or whatever sort of eatertainment it may be, can go to that office and make inquiry for her invitation, and there can be no mistake. Some ladies seem to think that a person's name on an envelope is a sufficient address and have the postman to gness which Mrs. John Smith is meant. Invitations are usually gotten out in a hurry and in the haste not snough care is given in the preparatiot. The enough care is given in the preparatiot. The troubles that some hostesses have had recently is enough to make them yow they would never give another company. This idea of meeting a friend on the street several days after your entertainment, and asking her why she did not come to your party, only to be told that she had not had any invitation to go, is getting altogether too frequent and too embarassing. The fault is not always with the hostess, nor is it always with the post, but both are to blame. Nothing can more annoy a woman who likes to go ent into company than to have her invitago out into company than to have her invita-tion delivered the day after the entertainment. And all this trouble and confusion is another plea for smaller parties, and not such crushes as one so frequently encounters. There is yet a rage for receptions, and it has not spent its force. In fact, from present indications, it is in its renith, and will be for some weeks to come.

Mr. Barclay Walker's new composition, a "ser-enata," after Moszkowski, has been published and is in the hands of the music dealers. It is a sweet melody, and short, and would be a delightful number on a programme if played with a contrasting style of music, as an "a" or a "b"

A number of little girls have organized a society for the purpose of raising funds to support one of the children's cots at the City Hospital. A little fair was held last week, and seven dol-lars was cleared. The workers are, Kate and Elinor Porter, Plossie Webster and Kate Smith.

Cards have been issued by Mrs. Jane Morris for the marriage of her daughter Katharine to Mr. William Brown, to take place at Grace Cathedral, on Tuesday evening, Dec. 4, at 7 o'clock. A reception will be given them by Mr. Brown's parents, at No. 280 North Meridian street, after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Drew entertained a few friends very pleasantly at cards, on Tuesday evening. Among the guests were Mrs. Farrer, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Appel, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Boot, Mr. and Mrs. G. Frecount, Mr. and Mrs. C. VanCamp, Mrs. Riley, of Chicago, and Mrs. Paul, of Philadel-

A surprise party was given Mr. Robert Emmett at his home, No. 24 Henry street, Friday evening. He was formerly employed at the Insane Hospital, and among those present were many of the present em-ployes of the institute. Mr. Emmett entertained his friends at home for an hour, and then took them to Celtic Hall, where a ball was given.

Miss Cora Counack entertained a number of her young friends at her home, on North West street, last Wednesday evening. Progressive enchre was the programme. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Clint Parker, Misses Clara Allen, Culloden, Bidway, Fry, and Messra. Fred Smock, Elison and Culloden. Miss Allen carried off the honors of the evening. Miss Hannah Stingler entertained a number of her friends very pleasantly Friday evening, dancing and progressive angling being the prodominating features. Among those present were Misses Florence and Mary Hereth, Wainwright, Knight, Lefwich, Reasners and Weaver and Messrs. Pierce, Scott, Wainwright, Whitehead, Leonard, Williamson, J. K. and O. C. Wright and others.

Wright and others. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Traub gave a musicale, Friday evening last, at their home on South Noble street, Miss J. May Miller, Miss Little Habing and Miss Weddell and Messrs. Ed J. Gausepohl, Harry Prier and Will Malone taking part. The numbers were rendered in fine style and were well received. Those mentioned have formed a musical club and will meet every two weeks. Mr. Ed J. Gausepohl is director. A delightful dinner party was given Thursday by Mrs. Jane Dunlop in honor of her aced mother, Mrs. Martha John and sister. Mrs. Wm. Jones. The guests were old-time acquaintances and relatives. Among those present were Mrs. T. H. Lynch, Mrs. Gillett, Mrs. T. A. Goodwin and daughters, Mrs. Wilson Morrow, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Josie Wiles, Mrs. C. C. Binkley, of Richmond, Ind., Mrs. Geo. C. Hitt, Mrs. B. Ward and Miss Sarah F. Keely

The Phoenix Club has been reorganized, with fifty-five members and the following officers: President, Mr. David Kahn; vice-president and treasurer, Mr. Sol Kiser; secretary, Mr. Elias Segar; stage manager, Bamberger, S. L. Kiser and Louis Newburger. Those members who recollect the brilliant entertainments given by this club two years ago, look forward to a pleasant winter. Mennerchor Hall has been engaged for the entire season.

There was a very pleasant surprise party gathered at the residence of Mr. Boy Kingsley, on Fietcher avenue, last Tuesday evening, to celebrate the sixteenth birthday anniversary of Miss May Kingsley. The society of Christian Endeavor, of the Southstreet Baptist Church, of which both she and her brother are active members, joined by the Y. M. Cchorus, surprised her. Some fine music was rende by Miss May Kingsley, who is a fine musician, M. Ella Cox and the chorus.

The Quamon Club was entertained on Wednesday evering last at progressive angling, by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Meyer, at their pleasant home on Gregg street. Among the guests were the Mesdames Shaw, Rehm, Kirschner, Lutz and Wilcox. Misses Effic and Stella Church, Bacon, Gable, Clump, Sipp, Woodall, Langstaff, and Coru, of Carrollton, Ky.; Messrs. The marriage of Mr. William Dagner, connected with E. C. Atkins & Co., and Miss Lenna Replogle occurred last night. Rev. Mr. Haines officiating. Mr. Dagner and Miss Replogle have known each other since childhood, and some years ago became engaged. The date was set for her nineteenth birthday anniversary and this occurred yesterday. They have built their own home on Jefferson avenue just east of Woodruff Piace, and here the marriage was celebrated. There were present only the immediate relatives of There were present only the immediate relatives of both. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Hez Dailey, Mr. and Mrs. Dill Prey, Mr. and Mrs. L. Railsback and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hines.

and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hines.

The Misses Youell gave a delightful surprise party last Friday evening in honor of Miss Lena Klausman. Music was furnished by the Italians, dancing being the principal feature of the evening. Among those present were the Misses Laura Gross. Lula Gross, Clara Wulzen, Mamie Doyle, Mamie Cargot, Mollie Ward, Mamie Suyley, Bertie Kimble, Maggie Haley, Lizzie Ritter, Mirtle Bouse, Mamie Feary and Ida Klausman, and Messes, Charles Field, Lou Knotts, Bert David, Fred Pouder, Lou Meyers, Ed Hurst, Ned Jollett, Jesse Harding, John Pritchard, Will Strawmeyer, Al Heaton, Al Coleman, James Gordon, Horace Boyden, Charles Stewart, Fred Klepper and Harry Klausman.

Mr. W. T. Noble, Clerk of the Supreme Court, gave a dinner, Friday evening, at his residence, No. 937 North Meridian street, to General Harrison and the newly elected State officers. All the State officers newly-elected State officers. All the State officerselect were present, except Judges Berkshire and Coffey. Judge Berkshire's absence was caused by his work in closing up the docket of his court, at Lawrenceburg, and Judge Coffey is in Arkansas on a hunting expedition. The dinner was an informal affair. Some of the new State officers had not been permitted to meet, socially, before, so that the dinner was a very pleasant, as well as distinguished event.
Reminiscences of the campaign were a feature of the after-dinner talk, but, otherwise, no political significance attached to the dinner.

One of the pleasant events of the season was the re-ception and dance given by Miss Lillie Habing at her home on North New Jersey street on Tuesday even-ing. The house was beautifully decorated with flowing. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and tropical plants. A novel programme was a small log of sycamore printed in gilt letters. Dancing was indulged in until a late hour, flowers being the favors. Those present were Misses Laura Stevens, of Effingham, Ill.: Maggie Price, Hunt, Williams, Brigham, Baker, Fowler, Hattie Frank, Shoetter, Camplin, Messrs, Strong, Ruesch, Price, Sylvester, McClellan, Barnes, Mederais, Gausepohl, Wiechelman, of Effingham, Ill.: Merfeld, of Ohio; Malone, Wieman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dodson, Mr. and Mrs. W. Aneshaensel and Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Habing.

Mrs. E. C. Atkins, who has been quite ill for the past two weeks, is recovering.

Mrs. Harry King will go to Columbus, O., this beautiful home wedding on Wednesday evening, Nov. 21. The bride was their youngest daughter, Ida, the groom Mr. Jay O. Shultz, the Rev. J. S. Jenckes, pastor of the St. Paul Episcopal Church, officiating. The house was artistically decorated with smilar. evergreens and potted plants. The presents vere many and valuable. After the ceremony the guests sat down to an elegant supper. Those present were Colonel and Mrs. Zollinger, Maj. and Mrs. J. R. Ross, Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Paver and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Geo. A. Woodford, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Will Coburn. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Webb, Mrs. and Miss Grayson, Mrs. and Miss Addie Smith, Mrs. Henderson, Mr. Wm. Schmidt, Mr. John Payne. The bridal party went to Chicago and the West for a short tour. Mr. and Mrs. Shultz will be at home after Dec. 10, at 414 College avenue. What promises to be the nost fashionable as well as the most artistic musical event of the season is announced for Wednesday evening, Dec. 5, at Tomlinson Hall, when the grand concert company of which Miss Emma Juch, the famous prima donna soprano, and the equally noted planiste Mme. Teresa Carrono, are the leading members, will give a single entertainment. The company is credited with being the strongest organization of its character now before the public, and the claim seems to be justified in view of the fine array of talent embraced in the programme. In addition to Miss Juch and Mme. Carreno, the list includes Miss Hope Glenn, once the leading contralto of the Nilsson Concert Company; Mr. Leopold Lichtenberg. a violinist of recognized ability, and Mr. Richard Heard, musical director and accompanist. Individually, the members of the combination have long since acquired reputations as artists of the highest class. while as an organization assurances are given that it is equal, if not better, than any similar company in the country. The programme arranged for Indianapolis is said to be especially attractive, and the enter tainment will no doubt be one of rare excellence. Mrs. R. S. McKee gave a very pleasant company on Monday evening, in honor of Mrs Brown, of Virginia, who is the guest of Mrs. J. R. McKee. The first of the evening was passed in playing progressive sixhand euchre. The favors were chrysanthemums, and every time a lady changed tables she was given a bunch of these flowers. The gentlemen were given rosebads or violets. The ladies also were given pretty littie etchings. After the serving of elaborate refreshments, a new amusement-an observation party -was introduced. The guests were invited to the dining-room, and there, on a table, were about one hundred and fifty articles. The guests were allowed to remain three minutes, and then returned to the parlor and were given pencil and paper, and then wrote the names of as many articles they had seen, as they could remember, the time allotted for this being also three minutes. The one remem-bering the greatest number received a prize. Among the guests were Mrs. John Love, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wulsin, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McKee, Miss Ar. es. Miss Strickel, Miss Sharpe, Miss Porter, Miss Coughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hibben and guests, Mr. M. G. McLain, Mr. W. F. C. Golt, Mr. Moores, Mr. Walter Bradshaw, Mr. J. K. Perfumery Everywhere.

This is an era of sachet powders. The society woman is liberally stuffed with it. Every dress sent home by the fashionable modiste has a plentiful quantity scattered between the lining and the padding. Small wool cushions filled with the favorite sachet are covered with silk and fastened into each armhole. Even the bustle is covered with a scented, quilted cover. A fad just now very popular is a bunch of scent bags tied together with narrow colored ribbon and pinned to the left shoulder. Scented purses and card cases are among the new perfumed articles of this season, as well as the odorous morning sacques and slippers, and the five toilet soaps are fragrant with milady's favorite perfume.

He Vaccinated the Cat.

Portland Oregonian.

A gentleman residing in the southern part of the city a few days since took the precaution of having his family, consisting of several girls and one boy, an "infant terrible" aged five years, vaccinated. Yesterday the young ladies were shocked by hearing a series of agonizing mews and squalls proceeding from a bed-room, and rushing in found their little brother in the act of vaccinating his kitten, punching its fore leg with a needle in a way calculated to shock the nervous system of the feline and every one in the house. The amateur surgical operation was brought to a close in an incomplete condition, and if the kitten dies of smallpox the boy is not to blame.

Another Lincoln Story.

Stories of Abe Lincoln always pass as coln every where, and it is not too late for one told by his son to a friend in Washington. "My father," said Robert Lincoln, "liked to stroll about Washington without any escort or show of distinction, and he sometimes strayed into curious company. One day, as a lad, I accompanied bim down a back street, where we en-countered a regiment of soldiers marching past, My father was curious to learn what particular body of troops this was, and as soon as he came within hailing distance he inquired without ad-dressing anybody in particular, 'Well, what's this? Quick as the word came a reply from

HOW MIRRORS ARE MADE.

Some Interesting Points Regarding an Infant Industry in This Country.

"How is a looking-glass made?" was the ques-tion asked a local Pittsburg manufacturer en-gaged in that line of business.

"That is a secret which we keep to ourselves. Even our employes are not informed as to all the processes. Each workman has a certain amount of work to do; he learns that and no more. Many of the processes we use are patented, and others are known to but very few persons in this country. But I can tell you something about the business if you wish. Pittsburg (or rather Allegheny) is the only city between New York and Chicago where plateglass mirrors are made, and there is but one firm manufacturing them here. Pittsburg platefirm manufacturing them here. Pitteburg plate-glass, which is as good as that made anywhere, is largely used. The glass is taken as it comes from the factory, and cut, beveled and silvered in our works. All bevels are cut in the same way, first with sand and water, then on an emery wheel and afterwards put through various processes to bring back the pollsh. Great improvements have been made in this line of industry in the past few years. Formerly it took three weeks from the time work was begun on a mirror before it could be finished. Now we can get the glass in the morning and make it into a mirror perfectly finished and ready for sale before evening. We make all sizes from the smallest up to glasses six by twelve feet, or even larger, and

"Formerly the backs of mirrors were coated with mercury, now sheets of pure silver are used instead. The old mirror reflected about 60 or 65 per cent. of the light that fell upon it; the modern mirror reflects fully 95 per cent. The mercury looking-glass was very liable to rub off; heat and cold also affected it; the quicksilver would crack or melt, and the beauty of the glass would be spoiled. None of these dangers threaten the silvered mirrors. "Besides mirrors we cut a great deal of bey eled plate-glass for doors and windows. In fine buildings this is largely taking the place of The traffic in Minnehaha sand has closed for the season. There has been an unprecedented run this season on the sand-banks below the falls, and it is a little strange that some enterprising genius hasn't long since secured the right and then gotten up a corner in that commodity. This sand abounds in great quantities all along the gorge. It is nearly as fine as gold dust, and of almost every conceivable color, varying from the pureet white and golden yel-low to red, green and black, and nearly all the intermediate colors. It is quite a coriosity at a distance from here, and Northwest-ern tourists usually made it a point to carry back with them a bottle of it arranged in variegated layers. During the past season the fakirs at the falls put up oceans of it in bottles, and arranged in such attractive form that the purchasers were many. One large bottle, with as many as sixty different colored layers of the sand, has been known to sell as high as $5. It is used to some extent in the kindergartens of the city. "Long John's" Conversion. Detroit Free Press. Innumerable are the anecdotes related of the late John Wentworth. One that has often been told has a religious flavor and exhibits a promipent quality of his character. He was called on by Brother Moody, who wished to do some missionary work in the interest of the noted and wealthy citizen.

"Mr. Wentworth," said be, after a prelimi nary conversation on health and the weather, 'wby are you not a Christian?" "Mel I am a Christian." "Is that so! But they tell me that you drink to excess. How can you do that if you are a Christian?" "That is a mistake. I never drink a drop of anything intoxicating. It's a political slander, and there isn't a word of truth is it." "But, Mr. Wentworth, you have the reputation of being very profane."

"That's a lie, too."

"Well, but, Mr. Wentworth, I myself heard you some weeks ago cursing and blaspheming in a most scandalous manner!"

"Where was that?" "Orre in the office of the county clerk." that was before I was conversed
